EDUCATOR CAREER & COMPENSATION ADVANCEMENT

OPSRC has partnered with BloomBoard to offer districts across Oklahoma a competency-based learning structure for career and compensation advancement. Through the program, districts can provide their educators with the opportunity to earn a full master's degree equivalent level of expertise, demonstrate skills that will open up new career opportunities and advance in their compensation via existing salary schedule credit – all at a more effective cost than traditional graduate courses!

HOW THE PROGRAM WORKS

Participating districts can design a master's level course of study for their educators comprised of a series of micro-endorsements. This enables educators to prove proficiency in specific practice areas while accumulating master's equivalent credit hours. Pathways can be personalized so they directly align to individuals' strategic plans. Educators will learn and practice ideas specific to their subject/content area. Sample micro-endorsements include social emotional learning, meeting the needs of English language learners, computer science instruction, personalized learning and more.
